Overview

Nicola Frost is a specialist family law barrister and arbitrator. Her practice encompasses financial remedies and private law children law matters, dealing with the division of finances on divorce, legal separation (following the breakdown of a civil partnership) or TOLATA issues between formerly cohabitating couples. She also assists clients when there are disputes involving children.

Nicola has won praise for her forensic attention to detail and often makes complex evidence (medical, legal or factual) appear straightforward. Nicola has a 'no stone unturned' approach to her cases and always has a total command of her papers.

Having qualified as an Arbitrator in the Financial Remedy Scheme with the Institute of Family Law Arbitrators (IFLA), Nicola is a member of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (CI Arb) and she welcomes instructions to act as the Arbitrator in divorce cases or to represent clients at arbitrations.

Nicola is a welfare officer in Chambers and an ardent advocate for wellbeing, and this is evident in her client care. She approaches cases with sensitivity and Nicola's clients appreciate her friendly, empathetic approach, alongside her direct advice and pragmatism. She is committed to achieving the best results for her clients and uses her strong negotiation skills to facilitate settlement, wherever possible. Where agreement is not achievable, her approach is robust, but fair.

In financial remedies work, Nicola regularly acts in cases involving business assets, trusts and international property. Nicola is a leading expert in the area of marital agreements (including pre-nuptial agreements, post-nuptial agreements or separation agreements) and is the author of a seminal book in this field: "A Practical Guide to Pre-Nuptial and Post-Nuptial Agreements". She may be involved in drafting nuptial agreements or advising upon their enforceability.

Nicola is highly experienced in international child abduction (both Hague Convention and non-Hague jurisdictions) and child relocation cases, both internal relocation and overseas. She also acts in contentious surrogacy cases.

Away from the Courtroom, Nicola sings with the Chambers Band, performing at charity events, and winning the Bristol Legal Battle of the Bands at the infamous music venue, 'The Fleece', in 2023. The annual event supports local charities. Nicola is the Chair of Governors at a Primary School and is elected as their Safeguarding Governor and SEN provision Governor.

Nicola is consistently recommended in Chambers & Partners for matrimonial finance, and the Legal 500 for both financial remedies and children work. She is a Family Law Arbitrator (Financial Scheme), a Private FDR Judge and a qualified mediator (civil and commercial law).

3PB Family Barrister Nicola Frost provides an insightful summary of Re: MM (A patient) [2017] EWCA Civ 34, an appeal from the Court of Protection in which the appellant had been ordered to facilitate MM's return to this jurisdiction, the court having found (on a number of occasions) it to be in MM's best welfare interests to be cared for in the south west of England.

The parties compromised the appeal and the court was asked to approve a consent order, allowing the appeal, on the basis that (i) the order made had become otiose and (ii) it would be futile to subject the appellant to further coercive orders in the face of her continuing obduracy. Case remitted to the court of first instance for the proceedings to be concluded.

3PB Family Barrister Nicola Frost provides an insightful summary of AB (Surrogacy: Domicile) [2016] EWFC 63, an application for parental orders in relation to two children in which the court had to determine whether at least one of the applicants could be said to be 'domiciled' in the jurisdiction at the time of the application and at the time of making the order, as required by section 54(4)(b) of the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 2008.
